8. Next Saturday, August 5, 1995 is the First Saturday of August.

The soul is inclined above all to express its desires. It is in holy desires which come from the heart and not in the multitude and arrangement of words that prayer lies. When we have this inward thirst of conversing with Our Lord, when we feel the need of speaking with Him, we do not MAKE PHRASES; we tell Him how much we love Him. We tell Him how much we desire to love Him. We listen to Him. We simply stay looking at Him, praising Him, adoring Him, were it only by a humble attitude, full of reverence and confidence - IN SILENCE. Our association is not emotional, it is not agitated, it is not in vision. It is in the quite removed silence of the language of our heart. Commenting on the words of Job: "Who would grant. . . that the Almighty may hear my desire," St. Gregory the Great tells us: "Remark the words: MY DESIRE. True prayer is not in the sound of the voice, but in the desires of the heart; not our words but our desires give power to our cries in God's most secret hearing. If we ask for eternal life with out lips without desiring it from the bottom of our heart, our cry is a silence to God. If WITHOUT SPEAKING, we desire it from the bottom of our heart, our SILENCE CRIES OUT."
