Article on Page 2 of the Bulletin.

"(the human person)" should read "(human nature)"

Christ was the Second person of the Blessed Trinity.

He had but one person.

He had two natures, one human and the other divine.

Please pardon the error!

It is recounted of St. Mechtilde that in her sorrows she had the custom of taking refuge with our Lord and of abandoning herself to Him in full trust and in all submission. Christ, Himself, had taught her to do this: "If a person wishes to make Me an acceptable offering, let him seek refuge in none beside Me when he is in tribulation, and not complain of his griefs to anyone, but entrust to Me all the anxieties with which his heart is burdened. I will never forsake one who acts thus.." We ought to accustom ourselves to tell everything to Our Lord, to entrust to Him all that concerns us. We should reveal to Him our thoughts, our cares, our anguish, our joys, our sorrows - in a word, everything, and He Himself will guide us through whatever it is that confronts us.

THE MONASTERY OF CHRIST THE KING, IN ALABAMA IS MOST GRATEFUL TO AN UN-NAMED CONVENT IN A DISTANT CITY WHICH HAS JUST DONATED ITS ENTIRE LIBRARY HOLDINGS TO THE MONASTERY. THE CONVENT IS CLOSING ITS DOORS AND WISHES TO REMAIN ANONYMOUS. THE 17 ELDERLY NUNS WHO MAKE UP THE ENTIRE COMMUNITY ARE FINDING RESIDENCE IN VARIOUS AND SUNDRY PLACES. MAY GOD PLACE HIS SPECIAL BLESSING ON THESE SISTERS.
