

plays havoc with the minds of people who are conscientiously struggling to maintain their legitimate Catholic upbringing and peace of mind. And the growing race of computer-powered, uninitiated "theologians" - both clerical and lay - wrecklessly use quotations from highly technical documents to "prove" or "disprove" established Catholic Doctrine or the rights and privileges and obligations characteristic of established Catholic Doctrine. They love to quote from the various encyclicals, as they, full of self satisfaction, work in the defence of that which they are not quite sure of. Their lack of experience is betrayed by their unwise interpretations. Together with the question of validity, they take up the question of obedience. They point ugly fingers at what they consider to be traditionalist disobedience toward valid ecclesiastical authority. Yet, they have nothing to say about the near total lack of obedience and the flagrant disregard for all ecclesiastical authority that is the characteristic mark of today's mainstream liberal catholic church. The wrong interpretation and the misguided application of the virtue of Catholic Obedience has disrupted the peace of mind of good Catholic people and has caused many of them to run and crowd nervously under the very leaky umbrella of the Ecclesia Dei Commission.

Let it be known that any man who is ordained by a validly consecrated bishop who has the sole and correct intention to do what the Magisterium of the Traditional Roman Catholic Church has ordered, is given his priestly powers to administer the Sacraments of the One, Holy and Catholic Church. Let it also be known that no man alive can strip such an ordained man of his priestly powers!!

It is a tragic sadness that in these days of crisis, in order to maintain the unbroken succession of PRIESTHOOD, the PRIESTHOOD which originated with the Sacred Hands of Jesus Christ at the Last Supper, we must resort to ways and means unthinkable some years back. It is a wretched way to live when it is unlawful to protect that which is unmistakably lawful. Thanks be to the Good God, unlawfulness has nothing to do with validity. This is THE vital point to remember. ALL opinions to the contrary notwithstanding!!!
